AEgis Technologies Awarded Employer of the Year by Virginia College

Huntsville, Alabama (May 18, 2010) – Aegis Technologies was awarded Employer of the Year by Virginia College in Huntsville, AL. Lance Cooper, Aegis Chief Operating Officer, accepted the award at the college’s annual commencement held at the VBC North Hall.

AEgis Technologies was recognized for its participation in the Computer-Generated Imaging Externship Program with Virginia College. In coordination with Lee Cox, Virginia College Program Director of Media Arts, students Caleb Williams and Torey Massey have gained valuable experience and school credit by working within the Aegis Geospatial Programs Department. Aegis Technologies also employs four full-time graduates from Virginia College: Mike Gawerecki, manager and senior 3-D artist; Bobby Dabbs and Brandon Smith, both high-resolution 3-D artists; and Michael Adams, Senior Systems Administrator.

“While our work is more focused on simulation development and real-time, real-world scenario generation, the skills learned in animation and game design cross-over into this field and provide a strong foundation for our employees. These traits are what we look for in potential employees and what we have found in the folks we’ve hired from Virginia College,” said Lance Cooper.
